Summary

As a Graduate Teaching Assistant at University of North Texas, I support the delivery of CSCE 5320 Scientific Data Visualization course under Dr. Zeenat Tariq, helping students learn how to create effective and engaging visualizations for various types of data using tools such as Tableau and PowerBI. I also assist with grading assignments, providing feedback, and providing tutorials.

I am pursuing my Master of Science in Computer Science at University of North Texas. I am also an AWS Certified Developer and have multiple certifications from Databricks, demonstrating my proficiency in using various platforms and services for developing, deploying, and managing data-intensive applications. I am passionate about applying my knowledge and skills to solve real-world problems and create innovative solutions.
